

Buckeyes Without Borders is having our first fundraising event of the 2013-2014 academic year!

Come join us on Friday, October 11th, from 7:30-10:30 pm in the Round Meeting Room in the Ohio Union for an evening of music, food, and raffle prizes in order to help raise money for the Buckeye Clinic in Piol, South Sudan.

The clinic was founded by two former Lost Boys and OSU alumni, Bol Aweng and Jok Dau, in their hometown of Piol, South Sudan. All proceeds from this event will go directly to the clinic and will help provide for things such as laboratory supplies, sheets and pillows for the maternity ward, and a blood pressure machine.

Tickets are just $12 and through their purchase, not only will you be helping the Buckeye Clinic provide life saving care to surrounding villages, but you'll have a great Friday night complete with:

- Free, unlimited hors d'oeuvres & dessert buffet with beverages!
- An update on the clinic's progress from Steve Walker, retired State Coordinator of Refugee Services in Ohio, and member of the Buckeye Clinic's steering committee!
- Five free raffle tickets to put towards: a gift from the Global Gallery, $25 Homage gift card, $20 Starbucks gift card, a copy of Bol Aweng's beautifully illustrated book Maluak's Cows, and/or a $25 Panera gift card!
- Free concert featuring fantastic local artist, Jesse Michael Barr of The Max Power Trio!

So visit our Facebook page to RSVP for the event and buy tickets on-line!

If you would like more info on the Buckeye Clinic, visit their website: <http://southsudanclinic.org/>

Like Buckeyes Without Borders on Facebook!
<https://www.facebook.com/BuckeyesWithoutBorders>