

ANT 5601: ANTHROPOLOGY OF SEX, DRUGS & HIV

The HIV pandemic reflects inequalities and social injustices that affect us all.

Course topics include:

- ❖ History & epidemiology of HIV
- ❖ Social constructions of 'risk groups'
- ❖ Global case studies of sex work, drug use, men who have sex with men
- ❖ Ethics in HIV research
- ❖ What can anthropology contribute to HIV prevention?

Who should take this class?

- Social science, global health, pre-med & other students considering a career in health or medicine
- Pre-reqs are not required, but some social science background is helpful

Instructor: Jennifer Syvertsen, PhD, MPH
ANTHROP 5601: M,W,F, 11:30-12:25, ARPS 0383
Email with questions: syvertsen.1@osu.edu